

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

- An image processing device has an image composition component that combines a plurality of image signals to obtain a single composite image signal, and an
- 5 image compression coding component that compresses and encodes the single composite image signal so as to obtain a compression coded image signal.

09884515, 061901